

From the President, Karen Smith

Hello fellow cattlemen!
I hope this finds you well.
Whew, it's been a long, hot, dry summer here but we've finally received a bit of rain. You may be in the middle of your local fairs, shows, town festivals, etc. or just completed them. One of my favorite things about cattlemen is their deep commitment to raising the next generation to love our lifestyle, and to educate about beef, cattle, ranching, and more to all who are willing to listen. Much of that education is done through events at the fair. Never forget the eternal difference that you are making!

As we head into fall, I'd like to encourage you all to give renewed consideration to inviting other people to join your local clubs and to find fresh perspectives and ideas on how to continue to promote and educate about beef and cattle. We also need the support of a good community around us and many lifelong friendships are created through cattlemen groups. Perhaps you are ready to start a new club but you need some help. Please reach out to your local quarter rep, or anyone on our board and we will help you! I know I'd surely love to see cattlemen's clubs get re-started in Larimer County and in Denver.

If your local club would like a visit from the CCW Board, please let us know and we'll work to get it scheduled. Thank you for all you do my friends- you are appreciated!

ANCW/NCBA Summer Business Meetings Reno, NV- July 24 & 25, 2022

Submitted by Karen Smith, CCW President

I recently attended the ANCW Summer business meetings along with other state presidents and fellow cattlemen. ANCW is celebrating 70 years as an organization- their platinum jubilee! The WY State president, Kim DesEnfants, and I enjoyed a good road trip together to Reno; I am always grateful for the wonderful people I have met along this journey.

We had a very productive 2 days of meetings that included legislative updates from NCBA's Ethan Lane and Tanner Beymer around their work in Washington D.C. with Capitol Hill. We had learning sessions from the Oregon and Florida Cattlemen on two of their 4th grade education programs; Oregon showed us how to create "ear tag booklets" and Florida showed us their new book The Cattle Tale: A Florida Agriculture Literacy Day Book and how they demonstrate about cattle and ranching. The Nevada Ag in the Classroom and Nevada Dep't of Ag were on hand to show us their "Ag Wagon" which they take to schools, fairs, events, etc.

Markie Hageman from Girls Eat Beef Too presented "Empowering Cattlemen"; much of her work is on social media and encouraging start up ranchers among young people. Cheyenne Sparks, OK State President, instructed us on how to make better graphics for social media in Canva. Chuck Coffey gave us an update on the Cattlemen's Beef Board and Jennifer Houston, past president of NCBA reported on their activities.

The Board of Directors Meeting, which is where all the state presidents attend and conduct the business of ANCW, was productive and informative. It's important for state presidents to attend to make their voices heard and the offer their support of our national presence. I'd encourage any of you to join ANCW as well as attend both the Summer and Winter meetings that are held. Your voice matters! The next ANCW/NCBA meeting is Jan 29-31, 2023 in New Orleans, LA.

Annual Membership Meeting Highlights

June 14, 2022

Submitted by Lacie Harman, CCW Secretary

The Annual Membership Meeting of the Colorado CattleWomen was called to order by President Karen Smith. Following an opening prayer and recitation of the Pledge of Allegiance.

ANCW President Reba Mazak spoke with those in attendance over the phone. Reba highlighted several steps everyone can do to have a positive impact on the industry. She emphasized the importance of simply visiting with people to help educate them on what happens in our day to day lives in agriculture. Reba outlined three of the different programs that ANCW has available: Wired, a program designed for females with a passion for the cattle industry to get together and learn various things from chute work, to herd management, and everything in between. The Collegiate Beef Advocacy Program, which was created to help bridge the gap between the farm and the fork, connects Collegiate leaders to the beef industry where they will be provided tools to help them grow as individuals, strengthen their leadership skills, and establish networks. ANCW also showcases an array of educational programs and materials, that have been specially developed to improve agricultural awareness, knowledge, and appreciation in America's schools.

Treasurer Loy Jones reported that the checking account has a balance of $46,035.61 and the money market has a balance of $30,309.36. A copy of the budget that had been approved by the Executive Committee was presented to everyone in attendance. The need to add a line item specifically for the Wild Rags was brought up. It was also brought up that because the proposed budget was not balanced it could not be approved. Loy and Karen will work on making the necessary corrections, and will get an updated proposal of the budget emailed to everyone.

Sallie Miller gave an update on the beef account. Sallie explained to everyone what the beef account does: a working relationship between the Colorado Beef Council and the Colorado CattleWomen that allows for reimbursement to local affiliates when they host a beef educational/promotional event. There are five different categories that are eligible for reimbursement: Beef Runs, Ag Fest, Beef Promotion, Cattle in Colorado history book (geared towards 4th graders), and the National Western Stock Show. $6,994.48 has been spent this year, with the promotional category being the biggest requested.

Julie Moore reported from the Colorado Beef Council, and gave out some new handouts that are available. She also told everyone that Chef Jason, who has been doing Friday cooking demonstrations on social media, will now be going live on their YouTube channel. An upcoming Stockmanship & Stewardship program was announced: August 19-20 in Burlington, CO. Right now, the Colorado Beef Council is in a big planning phase as they are working on their fiscal year end. The marketing director for the Colorado Beef Council is leaving, so there will be some shifting in responsibilities coming up.

The National Western Stock Show report was also given by Julie Moore. They are working on scheduling, but so far things seem to be running as normal. There is potential that they will be a food vendor down in the yards next year, and the horse sale on opening day is being brought back. Tony Romo is the National Spokesman for the Beef Council, and one of his promotional videos was played. It was encouraged for someone to be in contact with ANCW, and make arrangements to have participants in their Beef Advocacy Program back again to help with the booth at NWSS.

The ladies who attended Region V meetings in Cody, WY gave a report on the things they enjoyed and learned while they were there. The speakers were a highlight, but they were all very similar. The scheduling of the speakers also raised some issues, as there wasn't much of a break in between. Overall, everyone who attended reported positive feedback and felt it gave an overall vision of what the industry, and being a cattlemaster, is about. It was suggested that on the first night it would be helpful to switch some events up so everyone in attendance doesn't just stay within the group that they came with.

Wild Rag Auction Generosity Raises $12,500

Submitted by Loy Jones, CCW Treasurer

The table cloths were wrinkleless, the drinks were poured tall. The buzz of busy human bees was constant as family, friends, colleges, and associates conversed of anything and everything cattle and beef. Laughter followed jokes; applause followed awards. It was a week planned to perfection down to the second by those wonderful ladies in the Colorado Cattlemen's Association. We learned, we listened, we discussed and we strategized. It was the final banquet dinner and fun was to be had, but at one of the round tables set in the back, sat a group of cattlemen with a growing lump in their throats and a wild rag on their minds. We always hope our auction items do well at the banquet but this one was personal this time. This wild rag honored our sister, our friend and our very own force of ag, Heather Hays Stinnett. The proceeds of this special wild rag were to be gathered for a scholarship fund set up in Heather's honor. Her reputation preceded her because the bids came in fast and not a dry eye could be spotted at that cattlemen's table in the back. Steve Wooten, CCA's president set the tone when he donated the wild rag back... as did the next 21 purchasers, all giving it back. Napkins touched the corners of many eyes across the room as the generosity of an ag community came together to raise $12,500 from just one wild rag. I didn't know Heather as well as many others did in the room but it was in this moment, I knew that she was everything I'd heard her to be and more. It was also in this moment that I was overwhelmed with gratitude to be counted in with this community of people that continue to keep up the good fight for the love of land and livestock but even more so for the fact that this ag family honors the legacy that the leaders in this industry leave behind.

NorthWest Quarter Representative Needed

We have an opening for the NorthWest Quarter Rep, which is part of the CCW Executive Board. It is a volunteer position and terms are one year but most quarter reps choose to and are voted in for multiple terms.

Duties include, but are not limited to:

- From the CCW Bylaws- "Each Quarter Representative shall represent the President in the representative's quarter as directed by Executive Committee, and shall act as a liaison between the Executive Committee and her quarter."

- Attend Monthly Zoom calls with the Board of Directors and report on the activities happening in that quarter
- Contact each local cattlemen club in her quarter monthly and attend local meetings. For example, if there are 6 local in the quarter you would need to try to attend at least one of each of those clubs meetings in a year.

- Write articles for the newsletter to highlight the quarter or help local clubs submit articles.

-Attend in person the annual Summer CCA/CCW meetings in June and Mid Winter in January

- Must live in the Quarter they are representing

- Must be people oriented, have good communication skills, work well with a diverse group of people, be a self-starter, have basic computer skills, and a desire to serve and be part of helping to grow the Colorado Cattlemen.

If you are interested in this role, please reach out to President Karen Smith @ coloradocattlemen@gmail.com.

Routt County Cattlemen's 4th Annual 5K Poker Run Set for Oct. 2

Routt County Cattlemen are hosting their 4th Annual 5k Poker Run on Sunday, October 2. This fun event will begin at the historic, centennial ranch owned and operated by Don & Judy Sherrod and end at the multi-generational ranch of Doc & Marsha Daughenbaugh. The event is a fun, family run (not race!) where each participant draws a poker card at each kilometer, culminating at the finish with a fifth and final card. Whoever holds the best poker hand wins a bundle of free, locally produced, cattlemen produced beef. Can't wait to celebrate the beauty of our ranch landscapes while promoting our local beef industry with you. Come join us!

LOCAL HAPPENINGS

On the West Side of Things

Submitted by Christy Hawk

As we close the summer into fall, the Southwest Quarter of Colorado has been busy with fairs, parades, donations and generally just talking about beef. You will find Montrose Cattlewomen were busy during the Montrose County Fair, preparing 200 lbs of roast beef for the lunches served at the "chuck wagon," They also were busy with the buyer's luncheon helping serve delicious steaks to over 190 buyers. If that doesn't seem enough they were able to set up a booth in Friendship Hall a beautiful brand quilt was donated back to them from the family of Rayma Flowers.

Delta Cattlewomen a new reinstated group, graciously helped the Black Mesa Cattlewomen, handing out literature and sponsored a drawing for 20Lbs of Hamburger at the Delta County Fair.

Gunnison Cattlewomen found themselves in the Cattleman's Day Parade, promoting beef with their future cattlemen and ranchers.

Southwest Cattlewomen were busy setting up a booth at their local fair and handing out literature, and sporting new aprons, they also served a BBQ dinner for the buyers.

Black Mesa Cattlewomen were also busy with the local fair, booth, face painting, beef give aways, ice cream give away, more in the article by our secretary Marlyse Cunningham.

La Plata Cattlewomen were busy with the local boy scouts, teaching outside cooking, what a great idea! A booth was also put together for the local fair.

Lone Cone Cattlewomen were busy educating the young people of Norwood with their visual hamburger and what ingredients it takes to make. Hosting the WCCC on August 9, was also on the list.

Custer County Cattlewomen Host Burger Bash For Second Year During 4th Of July

Submitted by Vanette Benesch

The Custer County CattleWomen sponsored a free burger give-away at our Burger Bash immediately following the Westcliffe, Colorado 4th of July Parade. CCCW purchased 75 pounds of meat from the Prime Time Beef Company and San Isabel Ranch which CCCW was reimbursed from the Colorado CattleWomen Beef Account. In addition, San Isabel Ranch donated another 10 pounds.

CCCW members made 340 quarter-pound patties and gave every pound away free! The event began at 10:45 am and CCCW ran out of supplies by 12:30 p.m and had to turn people away. Tourists from around the state and from across the U.S. came through the serving line.

CCCW members who served wore the black “Beef, It’s What’s for Dinner” apron with our CCCW logo embossed on the bottom.

As people went through the line they were offered a beef bag with a variety of Beef Check Off items available to them including the Beef Life Cycle/Expert card, the Beef Sustainability/Myth Buster hand out, In Colorado Beef It’s What’s for Dinner sticker, Wow that Cow pamphlet, Beef It’s What’s for Dinner bumper sticker, the Powerful Protein handout and the Grilling Goodness pamphlet. CCCW gave all their stickers and Beef Sustainability/Myth Buster hand outs away.

The venue was on a grassy area on Main Street in front of the Salty Pine Floral Shop and Boutique. Pepper Stafford, owner, reported that her business was three times that of a normal day and credited that to our promotion.

A letter to the editor was published in both local newspapers and the local radio station also announced our event. In addition we posted to social media and according to FaceBook, our posts received 4,430 clicks.

We set out a scholarship donation jar which stated that all monies would be used toward our two $2,000 scholarships in 2023. Donations to that cause totaled $1,052.

Beef, It’s What’s for Breakfast!

On July 15, Custer County CattleWomen served 92 burritos to contestants, their families and spectators who were gearing up for the beef show at the Custer County Fair. CattleWomen arrived at the fairgrounds at 7 a.m. and started selling beef sausage, green chile, egg and cheese burritos for the affordable price of $5. This was the first time CCCW held such a breakfast and sold-out by 8:45 am. The event helped 4H and FFA families by providing a nutritious and delicious breakfast and also helped to bolster the CCCW scholarship coffers.

CCCW awards $4,000 in scholarships

Custer County CattleWomen were excited and proud to be able to award two $2,000 scholarships to deserving seniors, Bailey Sluder and Kyleigh Martin. Both young women grew up involved in 4H and FFA and will continue to have a hand in agriculture. Sheron Berry, CCCW treasurer, presented the scholarship awards on May 26 at the Custer County Scholarship Award Night.

Elbert County Cattewomen Serve School, Community

Submitted by Leah Braton

Elbert County Cattewomen (ECCW) organized and visited a school in Simla, Colorado the last week of their school year. ECCW also helped Elbert County Cattlemen with a meal for at least 300. This meal of brisket, coleslaw, backed beans, chips, rolls and ice cream at the Elbert County Fair prior to the Jr. Livestock sale.

The Logan County Cattewomen Have Been Very Busy And Don't Plan To Slow Down Anytime Soon!

Submitted by Chrissy Befus

Fair time is always busy and we were very active in the fair parade. With our float we passed out over 500 beef sticks to adults and candy to the kids!! We were a hit!! After the parade we were able to supply water bottles for the Junior Livestock sale. Which by the way set a new record and raised over $800,000 for our youth. We love our community!!

As we transfer in to the fall we think going back to school. The Flat Rancher project is a curriculum based-Cattewoman led project being developed by the Logan County Cattewomen. The project will teach school aged kids how their beef gets from the ranch to their plate.

Our goals for this project are:

- Connect kids of all ages to their food source.
- Support classrooms with teaching about agriculture in a hands-on way.
- Introduce students to the wide range of careers within this industry.
- Make connections for students between what they learn at school and where the real world implements those skills.

We need producers in the following areas of the industry that would be willing to volunteer to receive a letter from students, document "a day in the life" and return the project to students in a timely fashion:

Bull Breeders	Cow/calf	Transportation of livestock	Sales of livestock
Yearlings/feeding operations		Vet medicine	Processing and delivery
Grocery store to table

Black Mesa CattleWomen Generously Donating and Advocating

Submitted by Marlyse Cunningham, Sec.-Treas.

The Black Mesa CattleWomen continue to advocate for beef education in the schools by sponsoring a quarterly beef cook-off for the cooking class of Hotchkiss K8 middle schoolers. The most recent one was held May 11 with our unit furnishing the ground beef, judges and prizes. The cooking class's school year culminated with the first place winners for each quarter competing in an "Iron Chef" competition on May 18 with the CattleWomen furnishing the sirloin for the contest.

An annual event, though the receptacle changes

Mother's/Father's Day donation to Delta Health

yearly, we donated two beefy wagons to Delta Health to be presented to the mother of the first baby and the father of the first baby born on or closest after those holidays. The hospital always looks forward to our donation and is most appreciative.

We donated a beefy tin to the live auction to raise money for Crawford's annual summer celebration which raised $80 for their fund. We also participated in the parade for that event honoring all our former presidents with a poster which included their brand and the year(s) they served as president. Six former president were able to join us to ride on the float where we threw out Gummi® bears labeled as a beef by-product to the viewing public.

We donated funds to purchase a belt buckle to be presented to the winner of the Grand Champion Market Beef at the June Classic held at the Delta County Fairgrounds on June 18.

At our monthly meeting in June we voted to donate 75 copies of our Vintage Cookbook to the Colorado CattleWomen to be used for attendee gifts when CCW hosts the American National CattleWomen Region V conference next year.

July saw the installation of our StoryWalk® book at the fairgrounds park in Hotchkiss where it will remain through August.

At the Delta County Fair, we, with the assistance of the Delta CattleWomen on Saturday, manned a booth for three days in our exhibit hall featuring our beef by-products display, a brand quilt and a beef cuts display. We held a drawing each day for a beef give away which included a beefy tin and either two 5# roasts on Thursday, a dozen 8 oz. Sirloin steaks on Friday and 20# of ground beef on Saturday. In addition, we gave out beef cutting boards, recipes, nutritional and sustainability information as well as answering numerous questions about beef and agriculture, especially the by-products. Catering to the tastes of the younger crowd, we offered free farm and ranch animal face painting (for which we hired a professional), hosted a scavenger hunt with questions about beef and ranching that were featured in our book created for the StoryWalk®. Those with correct answers received a coupon for a free ice cream cone at the local Taco Hut and set up a coloring table featuring the Colorado Beef Council coloring book. Over 250 attendees registered for our drawings and 60+ kids participated in the scavenger hunt.

We donate our Vintage Cookbook to the Abraham Connection, a homeless shelter in Delta County as a fund raiser. Aside from attending the quarterly Western Colorado CattleWomen Council meeting in Redvale on August 9, we're now taking a break until our monthly meeting in September.

Moffat County Cattlewomen Hosts BBQ Jackpot, Record Fair Support

Submitted by Loy Jones

The Moffat County Cattlewomen hosted their second annual BBQ jackpot at their county fair this year. They had five contestants cooking and sold all 110 of the available dinner tickets. Each ticket holder got to vote on their favorite meat. Nick Maneotis was the overall winner and he cooked lamb. 100% of the proceeds were paid out to the top three places while third place Lee Fagan donated his earnings back.

The next day they hosted the cowboy baby contest which had 14 entries and all participants won farm animal themed backpacks filled with prizes. Both days the cattlewomen also hosted an AG SWAG booth to sell water bottles, t-shirts, stickers, magnets, gloves and yard signs. The turn out of members present at fair was the best it has ever been and the teal and black shirts stood out. Members also enjoyed seeing the public sporting previous ag swag proudly as the week progressed. Pictured below are this year's scholarship award winners Torin Gray & Pepper Rhyne with some of the cattlewomen. Each received a $1,000 scholarship and both plan to further their education in ag related majors. Having both mothers and grandmothers in this group of women means these ladies have seen these two go from cute little boys to young men and the Moffat County Cattlewomen are proud of their grass roots and very excited for what the future holds for them.

Gunnison Valley CattleWomen's Ag Education Event

Submitted by Melody Roper, President

Gunnison Valley CattleWomen hosted an Agriculture Education Event. The event was two days with the first day being for preschool and kindergarten aged-kids. They were able to see farm animals with the local FFA chapter members at the animal pen to talk to the youth about the animals. For the 2nd grade youth, we had some educational stations about water, beef cattle and growing plants. There were 206 youth in attendance.

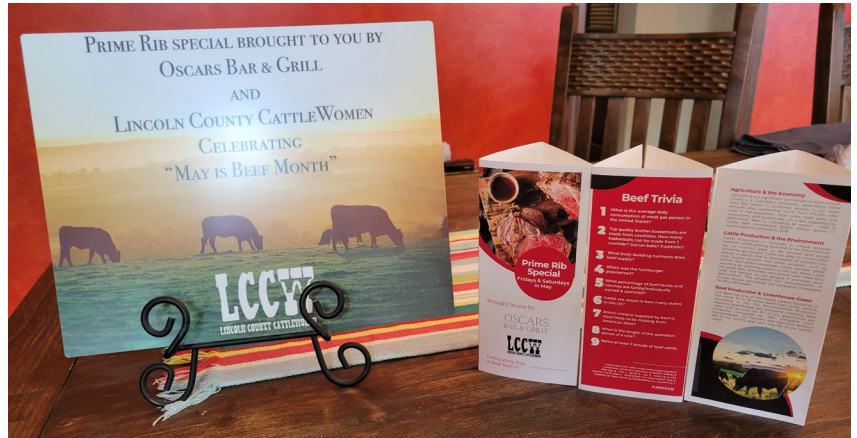

The second day there were six educational stations, consisting of ruminant digestion, beef cattle, water and irrigation, guard animals, a forage tunnel & a ride in a wagon with a team of horses. A total of 473 children attended this day for a grand total of 679 youth. We gave them individually wrapped rice krispie treats.

Lincoln County CattleWomen Promote Beef for Breakfast, Lunch and Dinner

Submitted by Kelsey Pope, President & Beef Promotion Chair

Lincoln County CattleWomen (LCCW) just finished county fair where we participated in the fair theme: Ag Through the Decades with a consumer-facing booth and parade float, "Our Heritage Continues... CATLEWOMEN STRONG." During the week, we promoted, "Beef: It's What's for Breakfast, Lunch and Dinner." with free beef samples featuring beef recipes for breakfast (Overnight Beef Breakfast Casserole), lunch (Rock and Roll Beef Wraps) and dinner (Beefy Cheese Dip). We also participated with the Lincoln County Stockmen and their steak fry fundraiser, making homemade cobblers.

A big fundraising effort this summer and fall is to sell spots for local brands to be featured on the LCCW wild rag scarf design, planning to come out later this fall. Watch in upcoming newsletters for a picture of the final product!

Late last spring, we helped sponsor a regional Ag Fest put on by Colorado Extension, where we purchased Beef Sticks for Backpacks (beefsticks.org) to hand out to the kids who came to Ag Fest, along with promoting the program to the schools involved. This was a great way to get beef into the hands of kids/teachers while also supporting the Beef Sticks for Backpacks program!

For May is Beef Month, we partnered with the Limon restaurant, Oscars Bar & Grille, to offer a Prime Rib special. Each Friday and Saturday night in May, Prime Rib was discounted to $16 a plate, first-come-first serve. You bet your boots they sold out of prime rib every night! Even if people didn't come for the prime rib, we had table tents on each table with beef trivia and fun facts for people to read while they sat. This was the first time we've done a promotion like this and it was a great success. The restaurant wants to do more to promote beef in the future, too!

Fremont County Cattlewomen's Summer 2022

Submitted by Lydia Lara

The Fremont County Cattlewomen have been BUSY! We awarded three $1,000 scholarships to Samantha Marilyn Devries-Voeglein (FCCW Scholarship), Madelyn Ley (Helen Shoemaker Scholarship), and Dane Joseph Devries-Voeglein (Mary Hall Scholarship).

FCCW sponsored a Fremont County Fair 4 H clean-up sloppy joe lunch.

The FCCW were invited to participate in Celebrating Canon's City Sesquicentennial Celebrations - Every First Friday of the month is a Feature Friday - with all kinds of Events including music, local food trucks and displays. We participated in May 6th with BBQ beef sandwiches.

Beef Checkoff Partnership with NFL superstar Tony Romo

Because he's a "Cowboy" at heart, Tony Romo is out promoting beef and the cowboy way of life. This summer, as the beef checkoff spokesperson, Romo has been urging consumers to "make the right call" with beef – a new tagline he will be using in his efforts. He will help consumers pick the right recipes and beef cuts and provide tips and tricks for gathering around the grill.

Romo is being featured across all media platforms, from TV advertising to Facebook, Instagram and Twitter. You can expect to see him sharing his favorite recipes, grilling tips and even a behind-the-scenes look into his personal passion for beef.

Romo was selected for this partnership due to his nationwide name recognition and ability to connect with audiences across the United States. He is also known for his values of family, authenticity and positivity.

Test out Romo's grilling playbook at www.BeefItsWhatsForDinner.com!

Montrose Wine and Food Festival

Submitted by Pauline Carr

Western Colorado CattleWomen Council again participated in the Montrose Wine and Food Festival on August 27th. Samples of beef brisket prepared by Zack's BBQ were served to approximately 600. Julie Muhr and Barb Youngwirth from Delta CattleWomen and Pauline Carr from Black Mesa CattleWomen served samples and answered many questions from the attendees. Questions like: Where can I buy beef from ranchers? What cut of meat is this? And tell me about raising beef. We were tired, but excited that we had such a positive response from people from 21 to 81. Our motto: Eat more beef.

Mark Your Calendars!

We have a very exciting announcement this morning!!! Logan County Cattlewomen, along with Washington County Cattlewomen's Association are hosting a HEIFER FEEDING contest! We are so excited!

Anyone can put a heifer on feed! Individuals, businesses, partners, etc. This contest is open to anyone in any state!

We will take delivery of the cattle on November 12 at McEndaffer Feedyard in Merino, CO.

Heifers need to weigh ideally around 750 but 550-750 will be accepted! All Heifers must be weaned!

If you want to put a heifer in but don't have one we will put you in touch with a producer!
